Business Session By Pahokee Lions

President Kyle Scott announced at the luncheon meeting of the Pahokee Lion's Club Tuesday that Attorney Milton McKay has been appointed to serve on the Education Committee for the coming year. Attorney McKay will also be a member of the Constitution and By-Laws Committee.

Instead of the formal program usually presented at the luncheon members held a business session.

Following a report by B. R. Mosley that the recently purchased clubhouse, formerly the Youth Center, was in urgent need of painting, members pledged enough money to purchase the required paint. James H. Wilkinson Jr. reported that labor for painting would also be donated. The painting program is expected to get underway within a week.

Manning Keen gave a report on the Florida Lions Mid-Winter Conference which he attended January 18-20 at Silver Springs.

Contract Let For Raising The Dike

A Tampa firm, bidding $1,353,560, has been awarded a contract to raise a 7½-mile section of Herbert Hoover Dike which surrounds Lake Okeechobee.

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers announced Monday that the Hendry Corp. was given the contract during the weekend. Four other companies submitted bids.

Two other contracts totaling $3,079,988 already are in effect and work is under way to raise the dike around the Palm Beach County lake.

The Hendry firm will work along the southern shore of the lake between Belle Glade and Bacon Point. About three million cubic yards of material will be taken from Lake Okeechobee and piled on existing levees to raise them two to six feet.

Part of the borrow material will be used to construct tree islands inside the lake area to give additional wind-tide protection to the levee. A 1,700-foot strip of paving which leads to a picnic and recreation area near Torry Island will be replaced, but access will be maintained during the project.

"Today we need a nation of Minute Men . . . citizens who regard the preservation of freedom as a basic purpose of their daily life . . . "

—JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY

10 days after his inauguration
as the 35th President of the United States.

Twenty years ago, in the dark, uneasy days before Pearl Harbor, the Minute Man of Concord, timeless symbol of our Nation's determination to defend its freedom, emerged as the emblem of the U. S. Savings Bonds Program. When war came, the Minute Man became the rallying force behind the huge and overwhelmingly successful effort to back our fighting men with War Bonds.

In this, the 20th anniversary year of Savings Bonds, the Minute Man of Concord calls all Americans to an unremitting effort to help preserve our peace and freedom, threatened by forces more powerful and resourceful than those we faced in 1941. Though this effort will take many forms, one way open to all is the continued investment in Shares in America, U. S. Savings Bonds, by "citizens who regard the preservation of freedom as a basic purpose of their daily life."

Making It Hard To Steal Grocery Cart

MIAMI BEACH — Educated shopping carts, trained not to leave home, are being tested by a Miami Beach Food Fair supermarket as the solution to the wave of cartnapping plaguing self-service stores.

The new system, called Operation Tourniquet, is being tested for the first time. It is a magnetic device that locks shopping cart wheels if it starts to stray off the store's parking lot.

An underground magnetic field forms an invisible fence to keep wayward carts corralled and special casters freeze the wheels when pushed across the magnetized area. They remain locked until a special key, also magnetized, frees them.

Disappearing carts, up to now, has cost merchants staggering sums running well over a million dollars a year. Although installation costs per store for the underground magnetic barrier plus special wheels for the carts, run into a couple of thousand dollars, Food Fair management believes the system will prove highly practical. Official trade name of the device is Faultless Control-A-Cart System, a development of Faultless Caster Corp. of Philadelphia.

Long spikes are covered with tangerine colored flowers and the only history of this tree is that it came as a bonus in with an order of flower seeds many years ago. "Butea" is the only name anyone knows. If you haven't seen it drive by Mr. Kingsley's home on third street in Canal Point. You will be glad you took the time to go by.

Norman Bezona of the County Agricultural Department said the tree in Mr. Kingsley's yard is Butea Frondosa—a member of the legum family and is a native of East Asia and very rare in Florida.

The report also notes that the proposed refinery "will offer to industry in Dade County, as well as much of the southeastern U.S., money-saving advantages of locally produced oil and petroleum products."

Employment Good In Past Year 1962

TALLAHASSEE—A good employment year in 1962 promises a cut of more than one-half in the minimum unemployment compensation tax rate for 1963, according to State Industrial Commission Chairman A. Worley Brown.

Brown stated the 1962 minimum rate was 1.1 per cent. The commission expects to cut it to .5 per cent of an employer's payroll for 1963.

Brown said the tax cut is due to a $10 million drop in unemployment compensation payments in 1962 from 1961 to an estimated $33 million. This drop is expected to maintain the Unemployment Compensation Fund at an anticipated adequate level of $120 million by the beginning of 1963.

Steel Pipe Brings Dixie Crystals

It takes over 100 miles of steel pipe to bring you those glistening white crystals of sugar that make your coffee or tea or dessert enjoyable. Over 150 tons of pipe ranging from 1-inch to 12-inches in diameter carry sugar cane juices through the various steps in sugar processing. Much of the pipe is made by Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, Pittsburgh, Pa.

To illustrate how pipe is used in processing sugar cane into raw sugar, let's take the new 5,000-ton Bryant sugar house built by Farrel - Birmingham, Ansonia, Conn. and Abacoa, San Juan, Puerto Rico for the United States Sugar Corporation, Clewiston, Fla. and engineered by Arthur G. Kelser, Inc., of Baton Rouge, La.

Surrounding this ultra-modern plant in Bryant, Fla. are 32,000 acres of waving green sugar cane stretching east and west around the southern shores of Lake Okeechobee. At harvest time, the sugar cane is cut and loaded into railroad cars which are taken to the sugar house and unloaded onto a conveyor. The conveyor carries the cut sugar cane to a crusher and grinding tandem which extracts the juice and sends on the bagasse (fiber remaining after the juice is extracted) to the boilers for fuel.

Here's where the pipe takes over. The juices are piped to a liming treatment to correct alkalinity to clarifiers and then to evaporators. In the evaporators much of the water is vaporized and the juice is concentrated into a heavy syrup. The heavy syrup is pumped to vacuum pans to permit boiling at low temperatures, and it is during this boiling process that the syrup is converted to crystals or grains in a "massacuite," or cooked mass.

The sugar crystals and molasses which comprise the "massacuite" are separated in centrifuges. The machine is essentially a perforated drum which revolves at high speed within a steel casting; the centrifugal force spins the molasses off the sugar crystals, leaving the raw sugar within the perforated drum while the molasses passes into the steel casting. All of the molasses is returned into the process for reboiling. After the second reboiling, the molasses is exhausted of the sugar and this finished by-product, known as "Blackstrap Molasses," is weighed and stored in massive storage tanks. It is an essential and highly nutritious feed.

The raw sugar is shipped to refining plants where it is refined, packaged and marketed.

Since pipe of every length, size and description is the backbone of sugar processing, it is extremely important that the pipe be of a superior quality that will insure long life and trouble-free use.

High-quality seamless pipe made by Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation has been extensively in the Bryant Sugar House—one of the largest in the continental United States. Supplied by Louisiana Supply Co., Baton Rouge, La., and fabricated by H. E. Wiese, Inc., Baton Rouge, La., J&L pipe is helping to bring a never-ending flow of sugar to millions of homes throughout the country.
